FRIDAY MORNING, JULY 11, 1862

The Cariboo and Salmon River Mines.

From Victoria we have a private letter which contains unpleasant news in regard to the American miners who have made the effort to procure gold in the Cariboo mines. The letter says that the news from Cariboo was not very encouraging. A great many miners were returning from the mining country "flat broke," and their account of their sufferings and disappointments are of painful interest. It is stated that as many as half a dozen have appeared at the American consul's office at one time, asking the assistance of Government to enable them to reach San Francisco, or to support them while compelled to remain at Victoria. Beyond his private means, the Consul has no money to be applied to such cases. He has, it is said, written to his government for instructions.

It is unfortunately true that so far, the returns from the gold mines of Cariboo has not realized the hopes of those who have had confidence in them. The season has been against mining. Many undoubtedly went to the mines illy prepared to meet all the trials which fall to the lot of the miner in that region. We doubt not that there are rich gold placers in many parts of British Columbia. We know that the Cariboo mines have yielded gold in large quantities and they will again.

We notice that a steamer bound for San Francisco recently carried some $40,000 in dust from Victoria, and over $200,000 in dust from Portland. The last steamer will show, we believe a greater discrepancy between the amounts of gold shipped from the two places. These shipments show the relative value of the mines of Oregon and Washington and those of British Columbia.

If the articles demanded for the consumption of the miner—manufactured articles and provisions—were produced in Oregon, would not the amount of gold, which of necessity should pass into the hands of her citizens, contribute greatly to her prosperity?

The Indiana State Bond Fraud.—The illegal issue of Indiana State bonds, the exposure of which created so much excitement in Wall street, lately, amounted, it is said, to nearly $2,000,000. Of this amount, it is further said, about $1,500,000 have been retired, and the remainder are in a fair way to be.—Stover, the principal rogue in the perpetration of this gigantic fraud, is now under arrest.—It is said that two of the Wall street brokers were accomplices with Stover, but in consideration of the high position they hold in the fraternity of money changers their names are withheld from the public.

Severe Medicine for Secesh.—Governor Johnson, of Tennessee, has issued a proclamation announcing that for every Union man captured or maltreated by marauding bands five or more prominent rebels shall be arrested, and for all property of loyalists destroyed, ample remuneration shall be made to them out of the property of such in the vicinity as have given aid, comfort, information or encouragement to parties committing such depredations.

Not long since, a secesh fired at a Union man. For this act twelve leading secessionists were put into confinement.

We are informed that the Rev. T. Starr King expected to leave San Francisco on the Sierra Nevada on the 12th inst. Should he not be detained at Victoria, or pay a visit to the Sound, he may be looked for here about the 19th. Our citizens will have a rich treat in hearing Mr. King, as it is hardly probable that Portlanders will allow him to leave without having delivered one or two public addresses.

Brigadier General Alvord has issued the following order:

Head Quarters District of Oregon,
Fort Vancouver, W. T., July [illegible] 1862.
General Orders No. 6.
In obedience to Special Orders No. 108, [illegible] 1862, from the Head Quarters of the Department of the Pacific, the undersigned hereby assumes [illegible] the District of Oregon.
1st Lieut. W. H. Hughes, 9th Infantry, is announced [illegible] discharge the duties of Acting Asst. [illegible] Adjutant General.
[illegible]
Brig. General U. S. Army.

A Secession Vow.—Capt. Emmett McDonald, who early figured as a secessionist in St Louis, and was put under arrest, made a vow never to shave or shear his hair until the Confederate States are acknowledged. He now sports an immense hirsute appendage. The rebellion already reaches his elbows, as measured by his flowing locks.

From our Salmon River Correspondent

Letter No. VIII

Florence City, July 21 1862.

As the Express goes out I send you a line though nothing important has occurred [illegible] wrote you on my arrival.

YIELD OF THE MINE

Many claims continue to pay [illegible] as high as one hundred ounces [illegible] claim. Some of the richest [illegible] yielding [illegible] they have. Water is [illegible] rapidly, and as the richest [illegible] without water the failure of water [illegible] quite a panic among the miners. Many [illegible] worked with sluices pay well that [illegible] with [illegible] and in many [illegible] will be played out [illegible] gulches there is not sufficient water even [illegible] rocking. As miners are without [illegible] experience [illegible] they are at sea in this matter. My own opinion is, the want of water will soon materially diminish the present gold yield.

FORMATION OF A WATER COMPANY

To remedy this evil a company propose to conduct water from Meadow Creek some four miles distant to the different gulches. The general opinion is the enterprise will be successful, but a contrary view is taken by many and their reasons are that the [illegible] which it is proposed to bring the water is lower than the mining camps generally. The company have made a survey, but it is still to be imperfect. A want of capital [illegible] and the sandy and leaky character [illegible] and the price of lumber too high for fluming. Water is promised in some of the camps in a couple of weeks. A limited number of hands is employed on the ditch. The yield of the mines this summer depend greatly on this enterprise. One company [illegible] me they would pay one hundred dollars a day for what water they could use. I am not sanguine of the early completion of the ditch.

ORO FINO AND ELK CITY MINES

A gentleman just from Oro Fino and engaged in mining there, informs me that perhaps one thousand persons are mining there and that many claims pay from six to ten dollars per day to the hand, but much is still [illegible] and that there are hundreds [illegible] who can find nothing to do. The water [illegible] at Elk City is too high for mining, and the claims can be worked better late in the season. Mining at Elk City is limited.

[illegible]

Had a dog fight the other day. Dogs have, as the hymn tells us, a right to bark and bite.

[illegible]

But miners don't go much on hymns and concede no rights to the [illegible] species which they do not claim for themselves, and so while the battle raged, one fellow waded in with a shovel and another fired his revolver. The street was crowded but luckily no one was hurt. A man was slightly wounded with a pistol shot the other night at a [illegible] house. Some one in authority about the house wanted to make a circle to have two fair ones trip the light fantastic toe, and ordered the crowd to fall back, and an altercation ensuing, the man ordering was shot. There was a slight scattering of the people. Windows, doors, and all means of egress were in requisition. "Any port in a storm." Roll up, tumble up, any way so you get your money up. A man and woman were attacked in bed last night and the woman badly beaten and the man nearly killed by blows from a revolver as supposed. I heard the cries of the woman but thought nothing of it as there is a continual screaming here all through the night, and quiet, rather than noise would astonish me. The house was robbed. Somebody expressed regret to day at this state of things. "Oh! d—n it," said a fellow, "let them kill, it only leaves more grub for the rest of us." The suggestion was unanswerable and all acquiesced. Such is life here.

FOURTH OF JULY

The glorious Fourth is to be celebrated here as the following posted in large bills over the town will tell you:

"A Great Battle

Between the dog "Danger," of San Francisco and "Jack Heenan" of Yreka for the sum of $500 a side, to come off Fourth of July at Miller's Saloon. Admission—$1."

In one of the saloons on canvass six feet by two, the artist has represented these two belligerent powers with their heads near together, and glaring on each other, and just ready to spring. I hear of no other celebration proposed and as the martial spirit rules high, perhaps the exhibition is in taste. I can't go a dollar on a dog fight but if I get a complimentary ticket, may be a "Looker on in Venice."

THE MARKET

is very variable and what it may be now will be no proper criterion of what it will be when this reaches you. Flour is $44 per 100 lbs; bacon 45c, sugar 50c, coffee [illegible], tea $2, molasses, $6, fruit, 40c, salt 40, beans 45c, liquors, from $8 to $12 per gallon, tobacco, $2 [illegible], butter $1 [illegible]. You get fresh beef for 20 and 25c, and mutton [illegible]. The cattle drivers here are nice and the [illegible] take them out daily to the different camps, by placing on each side of the mule [illegible] a box like a boot and shoe case, and hanging [illegible] pack saddles. Market tends downward. [illegible] weeks ago flour was $1 per pound.

NEW DIGGINGS

Every few days we have reports of new diggings, but nothing is scarcely known of any new and paying diggings. [illegible] through the camps [illegible] diggings south of Salmon [illegible] miles from here. [illegible] the report as I have seen a letter [illegible] as an aspiring miner [illegible] by the miners and while the letter [illegible] stance.—We have a good [illegible] and then miners [illegible] ers have also put out [illegible] last twelve [illegible] like a shock [illegible] [illegible] the sky to the [illegible] put to a flint a [illegible] to the bogs [illegible] Feed him on a [illegible] of new diggings and his youth would [illegible] as the wise and the good [illegible] the tomb, a beautiful land where the heart, weary [illegible] of his [illegible] down and [illegible] in the trail [illegible] some stray miner losing [illegible] should turn up in that land, his [illegible] spirit disdaining repose in prospect [illegible] would pass the [illegible] less [illegible] him.

STAGE ROUTE

The only chance for a new comer is to buy [illegible] claim, and which one in ten makes by buying [illegible] and [illegible]. Hundreds are here [illegible] and would be glad to work [illegible] to take them home. The mines here are very rich, but there are more men here than mines, and the country is [illegible] extensively prospected and it will be [illegible] enough to leave home when something [illegible] is struck. The mines are no humbug, but rich, and I think new ones will be discovered, and yet those who have homes and something to do had better remain at home till something opens. Observer.

Matters at Richmond and Charleston

The extra edition of the Alta has the following in relation to last telegraphic dispatches from the east:

It would be vain for us to attempt to clearly the condition of affairs in the neighborhood of Richmond. At last dates, even the people on the other side of the Rocky Mountains were but poorly informed as to what had actually taken place, for the reason that the [illegible] with the perversity for which it is often remarkable just at the most important moment [illegible] the work between the [illegible] and Washington. The army of Gen. McClellan has changed position. After the battle of Fair Oaks it stretched north and south. Then it changed to a line extending from a point on the Chickahominy northwesterly to Hanover Court House, by which [illegible] communication with the Potomac by the railroad which crosses a little below Aquia Creek. Now it extends from the same point on the Chickahominy to the James river, and is in communication with the gunboats.

The question to be determined is whether this change of position is the result of necessity or of General McClellan's strategy. It does not seem reasonable that our young Commander in Chief should have selected the [illegible] of Richmond for his final assault, the very point at which the gunboats could lend no assistance to him. By permitting the enemy to roll up his right wing, he has now gained a position at which the [illegible] James river from the [illegible]. It is known to our readers that the fortifications and embankments at Drury's Bluffs, seven miles from Richmond, have prevented the Monitor and the other iron-clad boats from penetrating to the front of the city. If McClellan could, by land, outflank these batteries, the taking of the rebel capital would be an easy work. It will be seen that by a reconnoissance in force it has been ascertained that the position is guarded by the absurd Wise with only five regiments. Of course on the movement of our army in that direction, the latter could not hold out as long as he did at Roanoke, and that was only for an hour or so.

If this view of the situation be correct, the late movements of McClellan on the northeast side of Richmond viz: the destruction of the bridge over the South Anna river, and the seizure of the Central railroad, were only feints, and the rebels, by making the desperate onslaught on the right wing of his army reported to-day, fell into the trap which he had set for them, and, in fact, aided him in forming the very line which he desired and from which he is now operating. There are rumors that Richmond has been actually taken, and there may be more truth than poetry in the announcement.

The key of the place, as above stated, was held on the 27th ult., by Wise and only five regiments. One thing at least the news establishes, viz: that the fighting during the last days of June, in front of Richmond, has been the most desperate which has taken place since the war commenced.

There is only one feature of the news to-day which is at all calculated to dampen the patriotic ardor of our citizens, viz: the unsuccessful attack upon Charleston. There is nothing very important, to be sure, about it. The movement, it will be seen, was premature and apparently ill advised. The General in command, we presume, thought more of his own future advancement than of the country. The conqueror of Charleston will forever be held in veneration by the people of these United States, but he evidently allowed ambition to warp his judgement. The result has been a repulse. It does not make much difference however. The next attempt will be crowned with victory. It will be seen that it is reported that Com. Dupont says he can take the place with five gunboats.

A Set-to Between Blind Men.—The following good story is told by the "local" of the New York Courrier des Etats Unis:

A few days since, a poor blind man, having on his hat a placard stating his infirmity, and carrying a box with confectionery, stood on the corner of Broadway and Rector streets. At the same time another blind man with the words "I am blind" on his hat, was coming down the street in another direction. [illegible] little [illegible] containing cakes and confectionery [illegible] suspended from his neck. Suddenly [illegible] arrested the passer by [illegible] [illegible] the two blind men [illegible] mixture of [illegible] [illegible] the two men, exasperated at the disaster [illegible] each other epithets [illegible] [illegible] "Why didn't you look out for your feet?" "And you, why didn't you get out of my way?" "How could I, when I am blind?" "You blind—so am I." In short this exclamation was followed by a [illegible] between both parties, and the good [illegible] [illegible] "My old friend!" "And thou [illegible]" [illegible] The story is short. The men [illegible] recognized each other by [illegible] an explosion [illegible] as they had been separated for a long while and after the lapse of years met in the singular manner above related.

A Remarkable Prophecy.—[illegible] Baker made a remark [illegible] last winter while sojourning in Philadelphia. He said that it was his firm belief that the Stars and Stripes would wave over New Orleans by the 27th of April. Strange to say that the prediction has proven true to the very letter—our force occupying the Crescent City on the very day of the month.

CITY.

The MORNING OREGONIAN has a larger SUBSCRIPTION LIST than any other Daily published in this City.

THE DAILY OREGONIAN may be had at the Franklin Book Store and at Charles Barrett's, Front street.

HOUSES TO RENT.—Perhaps at no time since the settlement of this city has the demand for houses to rent been so great as at the present. We have had a little experience in this demand, and after traveling the city from one extreme to the other, have been unable to find a single dwelling house of suitable dimensions and comfortable conveniences for a small family. Every building affording even the simplest and most meager shelter, is occupied, and in many places two or more families are living under the same roof. We know of several gentlemen who are extremely anxious to rent dwelling houses, and if there are any such vacant, the owners can find a tenant by sending word to this office immediately. We think it would be a profitable investment for several of our citizens who have plenty of means to erect a number of dwelling houses specially to rent. The present rates are very high, almost enormous.

JOHN JONES.—Where are you? You are wanted, Mr John Jones, and unless you make your appearance very soon and commence the carrying of mail from Monticello to Astoria as per contract let to you by the Department, you will be declared a contraband and your effects, if you have any, confiscated. Most of the indignant people of the lower Columbia river section already proclaim you a secessionist, and unless you appear they will be satisfied that you have gone to join old Floyd's command.

BEAUREGARD TAKEN PRISONER.—We are officially informed that Beauregard has been taken prisoner and is now safely lodged in the guard house at Fort Vancouver. [illegible] A deserter from Company "D," 1st W. T. Infantry, surrendered himself, yesterday, to Sergeant Penn, of Company A of same regiment, giving his name as "Beauregard,"—whether of kin to the great rebel General or not, we did not learn. He claims, however, to be the real, genuine, original Beauregard, late from Jeff. Davis' or some other crazy kingdom.

SAILED.—The steamer Pacific sailed last evening at half-past nine o'clock for San Francisco, via Victoria. She took away about two hundred and fifty passengers and considerable freight for Victoria, principally flour and bacon. Our streets were perceptably thinned of comers and goers, who bore evident marks of having seen the "elephant," and were satisfied.

STEAMBOAT FOR SALE.—The steamer Multnomah is advertised for sale. Here is a chance for some body to start an opposition line against all the world and the rest of mankind. Opposition is the life of trade, so pitch in gentlemen—the more, the merrier—and the better for those who wish to use the advantages that may be offered.

"MORE ROCKS."—Messrs. Goldsmith Bros presented another tempting show of bars and [illegible] in their show-case, yesterday and we noticed many a longing and wistful glance taken at them by the passers by. Three of the bars weighed 101 ounces, and four smaller [illegible], 125 ounces, making in the aggregate [illegible] ounces, or $[illegible]858, counting at $1[illegible] per ounce.

NEW MUSIC.—Mr. E. G. Randall, music dealer on First street, has laid before us a new ballad entitled "Minnie Adair," words by L. R. Goodman and music by G. P. Evans, and published by M. Gray, San Francisco. The words and music are very pretty. It is arranged for piano and guitar. Thanks Mr Randall.

UNITED STATES MONEY IN DEMAND.—In Nashville, business houses and hotels keep posted placards inscribed "No Southern money taken here," and Confederate notes are valued about as much as the same amount of blank paper, but the United States Treasury notes pass at par in all transactions. Do not these two facts plainly, asks the Nashville Union, what our secessionists at heart believe in reference to the stability and solvency of the Federal and Confederate Governments?

GEN. SAM HOUSTON.—The Springfield Republican, says Gen. Houston is not acting with the Texas secessionists, as has been reported, but from prudential motives is keeping quiet, and will, when the proper time arrives, be as much a Union man as any one in Texas.

ARIZONA.—The population of this recently organized Territory is 10,000, of which 6,[illegible] are whites, 21 negroes and the remainder Indians, who are not wild, but semi-civilized, and entitled to all the rights of citizenship under the treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo.

Good Advice to Consumptives.—[illegible] HALL'S BALSAM is a sure remedy for all the various stages of CONSUMPTION such as Hacking Cough, Pain the Breast, Spitting of Blood, Night Sweats, &c., having the highest testimonials ever given to [illegible] medicine in the world.

The Fourth.

The celebration of the National Anniversary has come to signify, of late, the outpouring of a vast deal of bombast, and the in-pouring of innumerable sherry cobblers. In truth, against no other day, in the whole three hundred and sixty-five, do the professor of rhetoric and the lecturer on temperance inveigh so bitterly, as against the Fourth of July. They brand it, as the Athenians did Socrates, "corrupter of youth," as regards purity in writing and sobriety in living. Can we wonder, when we consider how little of the spirit of '76, is generally manifested on the occasion? Instead of fostering a manly patriotism, the day has often degenerated into the jubilee of Messrs Buncombe and Bartender.

It was our lot to spend the Fourth, a year ago, at the Falls of Niagara. Here, at least, thought we, we shall be free from frothy declamation and sparkling potation; surely men will listen to, and learn of the cataract, as, in tones grandly eloquent, it pronounces its own eulogy, the sun painting, the while, all over the falling water, the hues of the Iris, bows of promise to the users of the pure, God given element. But no, as train after train came on, with its freight of Young America, the bearing of the throng and the pop of champagne told that the American eagle must take its annual aerial flight, and that the "invisible spirit of wine" must rule the holiday.

We cannot believe, however, that this has been the case over the land to-day. We trust that the year has taught us, among other lessons, to celebrate aright the Republic's birth day.

The Declaration of Independence has been re-signed in crimson, during the past few months too often, to permit the usual desecration. Even the most thoughtless, wild, and selfish have grown thoughtful, sober, and self denying. Flashman & Brummel have doffed broadcloth and gone to the wars; while Miss Flora changes her habit and song, and stitches for the soldiers "something to wear."

We are certainly right in our conjecture, if we may judge from our own County celebration. It was under the direction of our worthy "village blacksmith." The exercises were opened with an appropriate prayer by President Marsh; then came music; then, the reading of the Declaration, which was well given, by W. D. Hare; then, the Oration, by your talented townsman, Rev. T. H. Pearne. It was characterized, as are all his efforts of the kind, by vigorous thought and earnest patriotism. Well would it be for many of our ambitious declaimers, could they acquire the dignified composure and senatorial bearing of Mr. Pearne. It is so refreshing to see a public speaker that knows what to do with his hands; that neither uses them to "tear passion to tatters," nor lays them to rest, in the pockets of his pantaloons.

After the address, the audience repaired to the tables, that were loaded with a variety of good things. There was enough for all, even the boy that had fasted the previous twenty-four hours, feasted and munched, to his full satisfaction.

As the afternoon wore away, the crowd departed, feeling that the Fourth had been a good day, and the County celebration a decided success. T. E. A.

Forest Grove, July 4th, 1862.

The Fourth at the Dalles.

DALLES, July 5th, 1862.

EDITOR OREGONIAN:

On arriving at the Dalles from Powder river, I was reminded that the 4th of July was fast approaching, by the extensive preparation being made by the M. E. Sabbath School and others to celebrate that sacred day, made sacred by the blood of the heroic sons of '76. And having been taught from my earliest boyhood to reverence and respect the laws and usages of my country, I deemed it nothing more than my duty to celebrate with them.

On the morning of the 4th over one hundred children, happy and well behaved, met at the district schoolhouse, and were there joined by a long train of patriotic citizens. They then formed into a procession, headed by the drum and fife, and with numerous flags and banners flying, marched to the place prepared for the speaking and singing, where all were very interestingly entertained for some time.

The first exercise was the reading of the Declaration of Independence, which was elegantly performed by a young lady. After which a number of appropriate toasts were read and responded to in an enthusiastic manner, fitly becoming the occasion, interspersed with some of the choicest pieces of music, well executed.

After these exercises were closed, a procession was formed and conducted to the dinner table, which was the most inviting one I have ever seen on such an occasion.

After all had partaken freely of the abundance of good things prepared by the kind and loyal ladies of the place, all went home highly satisfied with the festivities of the day, and proud of the event they celebrated.

Much credit is due to the Superintendent of the Sabbath School and to those who assisted him in the arrangements of the day.

Three cheers for the banner county of Wasco. MINER.

THE NEW STEAM CANNON.—A trial of the coffee mill gun was made at the United States Arsenal, Washington, lately, in the presence of Generals Sigel, Carl Schurz, and a number of army officers. Major Rowland fired the piece at the rate of two hundred balls a minute. The balls fell in the water at a distance of half a mile. General Sigel fired twenty four balls in ten seconds, all of the balls striking the target within a space of four inches in diameter.

The Hallelujah chorus was played by the orchestra at the opening of the World's Fair. It is to be hoped this untimely exhibition of abolition feeling on the part of John Bull will not disturb the entente cordial existing between him and Jeff Davis.—Marysville Appeal.

ANDREW J. VALLANDINGHAM.—Andrew J. Vallandingham, who says he is a brother of the member of Congress from Ohio, has been taken in custody by Col. Fitz Henry Warren, at Clinton, Mo., upon a charge of horse stealing, robbing, and driving out Union men and marauding, bushwhacking and jayhawking generally.

FAMILY

SEWING MACHINES

ARE UNEQUALLED BY ANY FOR

BEAUTY AND SIMPLICITY OF CONSTRUCTION

—AND—

Efficiency in Working.

A GOOD SEWING MACHINE

SHOULD BE WELL MADE, simple in its construction, and easily kept in order; should make a TIGHT LOCK STITCH alike on both sides of the material, and should sew any and all materials that can be sewed.

It should be able to use cotton thread, or silk, directly from the spool, and to sew from coarse to fine, and from thick to thin, with rapidity, and without changing the tension. It should also be able to make the tension greater or less, on both the under and upper threads, and with uniformity; and should have a straight needle, curved ones being liable to break.

The needle should have perpendicular motion—this is absolutely necessary for heavy work.

It should be able to bind with a binder, hem with a hemmer, should stitch, fell, run and gather, and should be always ready to work.

It should be capable of using the same size thread on both sides of the work, instead of using different colored thread or silk, above or below, to correspond with any two colors of cloth to be united.

It should be able to make a long or short stitch, and to fasten off the seam and commence sewing tightly at the first stitch, and to run easily, and make but little noise.

It should have a wheel-feed; no others are in constant contact with the work.

It should not be liable to get out of order; neither should it require a screw driver or wrench to set the needle.

It should not be liable to oil the operator's dress.

It should not form a ridge on the under side, nor ravel.
